

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A discrete cosine transformation apparatus comprises a transposition section that transposes input picture signal of  $N \times N$  pixels in every  $N$  pixels
5 between the one-dimensional processing and the two-dimensional processing and a transformation section that subjects an output of the transposition section to a discrete cosine transformation.